

INTEREST TAKEN IN BOARD'S ACTION

Some Places May be Opened by New Proprietors.

Paducah Now Has Seventy-Two Saloons Instead of One Hundred and Four.

BLOW FELL HEAVILY ON SOME.

Out of the seven men who were refused a license by the legislative boards, only one will make any further attempt to secure one.

The only one who is considering again applying is J. M. Quarles. "My place of business was not objectionable," he stated, "and I do not see that I should be refused a license for something that is five years old. The cards which I had five years ago disappeared and I have not seen one in years. I have not practiced any such advertising of late and never intended to any more. I do not know whether I shall apply again. I may dispose of my business."

There are now 72 saloons licensed in Paducah, a falling off of 32 since last year, when 104 licenses were issued. It is possible, however, that some of the places licensed for which were refused the present proprietors, will be opened by other persons. One of the hardest hit concerns was the distilleries company, which had no wholesale license but did a considerable business in quantities of five gallons and less. One or two saloon men own their own property and they felt the blow heavily.

The action of the general council was the subject of much comment on the streets, and whatever disagreement was expressed with the action in individual cases, Democrats and Republicans united in admiring the spirit of the board, which prompted it to stand by the committee's report.

There is no recourse for the proprietors whose licenses were taken away and they must abide by the decision of the general council.

FLURRY OF LABOR TROUBLES

Break in Upon an Unusually Peaceful Summer.

Chicago, July 11.—A flurry of labor troubles broke in yesterday upon an unusually peaceful summer. The cement works strike swelled beyond all calculations and involved before sundown 2,200 men employed in constructing sidewalks and concrete walls in buildings. Two other disturbances in the building industry were reported while a walkout of drivers and grain shovellers brought a total of the day's strikes to five. Eighty-five percent of the cement works in the city of every description was tied up by strikers. This marked the largest number of men on strike in Chicago since the teamsters strike last summer.

MANY WITNESSES TELL OF KILLING

B. J. Ewen, First Man to Tell the Truth, Testifies.

Commonwealth Undertakes to Prove Manner in Which Marcum Was Assassinated.

ALEX HARGIS GETS ENRAGED.

Beattyville, Ky., July 11.—The first witness introduced this morning by the commonwealth, in the trial of Jim Hargis and Ed Callahan for the murder of Marcum, was A. S. Johnson, of Jackson. Witness saw J. B. Marcum Sunday evening before he was killed on Monday. He was talking to Tom White when Marcum passed by. White joined Asbury Spicer and followed Marcum up the street. Hezekiah Combs, of Morgan county, saw Tom White, Curt Jett and John T. Noble in conference when Marcum came down the street toward the court house.

The testimony introduced by the commonwealth during the morning was for the purpose of proving to the jury the death of Marcum and the manner in which he was assassinated. Several witnesses were introduced, among them E. L. Noble, N. B. Combs, Hezekiah Combs and W. B. Johnson. B. J. Ewen, who was the principal witness in the prosecution of Jett and White, and the first man who dared to tell the truth of the crime was on the stand during the morning. Ewen gave some sensational testimony today. He said that when Hargis learned that Marcum had at one time spent the night at his home, Hargis wanted to know why he didn't kill him. He requested Ewen to take Marcum out for a walk at night and return alone. He said that after the killing Hargis wanted him to resign as deputy sheriff in order that he could be used on the jury. Ewen said the confidence always displayed in him by Hargis prompted the latter to say many things to him. Attorney Young asked Ewen about the time it was alleged an attack was made on him in Lexington, but the court ruled the question out.

James Mann said Hargis asked him to kill Marcum, but that he refused because his eyesight was bad, and because he could not shoot with his right hand. Witness was later told by Hargis that all arrangements to kill Marcum had been made, and asked him to shadow Marcum.

Mrs. Rebecca Bailey, mother of Mose Feltner, told of efforts of Callahan to get her to get Mose to leave the state.

Henry B. Noble, a clerk for Hargis Bros. at the time of the murder, saw the shooting and said he heard White ask Callahan later what he and Jim were going to do about the money.

Judge Dorsey announced that he would call a special term for the first week in August to try Abner and Smith, while the French case would likely be taken up during the next regular term in November.

The defense seriously objected to any and all of the testimony of Mose Feltner, on the ground that he was one of the alleged conspirators, and was therefore not competent to testify. Judge Dorsey took the position, however, that Marcum was not killed, according to any of the conspiracies entered into by Feltner.

Alex on War Path.

Beattyville, Ky., July 11.—Alex Hargis went on the warpath early this morning, and for a time guests at the hotel were thrown into a panic. Hargis was sitting at the breakfast table with Judge Dorsey and the correspondents, and began a tirade of abuse against Judge M. B. Benton, of the Clark circuit court. When one of the correspondents refused to agree with him about the matter he turned loose a war of words on the latter. During the argument Hargis grabbed a water glass and drew back his hand to hurl it at the writer.

Alex Hargis always makes it a point to hurl insinuations at the attorneys and others opposed to and prosecuting the Breathitt feudists. Unless every person present agrees with him, he is ready and apparently spoiling for a fight.

He never speaks a good word for Jim Hargis nor Ed Callahan, and the statement was made by one of the attorneys for the defense that the two Hargises have not spoken to each other in over two years.
